WCS Investigators Identify Body Pulled from Water in early June

Deceased male identified through dental records.

Detroit (June 22, 2011) – After a thorough investigation, investigators with the Wayne County Sheriff's Office have positively identified the badly decomposed body of a male found in the Detroit River between Celeron Island and Sugar Island on June 8, 2011. Twenty-five year old Orlando DeShawn Coleman's death is being ruled a drowning. It is believed the body was in the water for several months. WCS investigators, along with the Medical Examiner's office, secured medical information and details from members of the man's family based on materials found during the recovery. The case is considered closed.
